Bettinehoeve - EMMI

Bettinehoeve is a growing company with ± 130 employees. The activities are carried out at 2 locations in Etten-Leur. Since 1982 the company has focused on collecting goat's milk and producing and marketing fresh and matured goat's cheese under the brand name Bettine and under private label. Every year, approximately 50 million litres of goat's milk is processed into cheese at two different production locations. This cheese is sold in the Netherlands and other European countries to retail and food service organisations. In 2014, the company put a milk powder drying tower into operation under the name Goat Milk Powder B.V. Here, in addition to high-quality (organic) goat milk powder, WPC (whey protein concentrate) is also produced for application in baby and sports food, among others. Recently the construction of the second milk powder drying tower has started! Since early 2016 Bettinehoeve is part of the Swiss dairy group EMMI (<https://group.emmi.com/che/en>). Emmi is Switzerland's largest dairy processor and is known worldwide as a producer of premium dairy and cheese products. It is the specialist in Swiss cheeses such as Le Gruyere and Emmentaler. In Switzerland, the company produces and markets a complete range of dairy and fresh products as well as Swiss cheese. Outside Switzerland, Emmi concentrates on brand concepts and specialties on the European and North American markets.
